It Might Be Possible to Break In the Dead-Broke Count at the Necktie Counter, but Even There His Sensitive Soul Might Meet with a Shock

NONE AT MORGUE TO CLAIM PRETTY WOMAN SUICIDE

She Had Jumped Five Stories, Carrying Umbrella as Parachute.

Nobody has come to the Morgue to look at the body of the pretty young woman who killed herself last night by jumping from a window on the top floor of the house at No. 549 East Eighty-fourth street, holding a raised umbrella aloft, parachute fashion, as she took the fatal plunge to the street-covered below.

The chances are that the name of the main actor in the most spectacular suicide that New York has seen in months will never be known—that she will go to the Potter's Field or the embalming vat of some dissecting room unidentified and unmoored. Absolutely no inquiry regarding her has been made.

As she lies mangled and crushed on the stone slab of the gray Morgue the woman looks like one who had had friends and a home. The features are regular and refined. The head is crowned with a mass of brown hair streaked with gray—probably gray for the dead woman could not have been more than thirty-one or thirty-two years old. She is small, with slender, delicate hands and limbs. Her height is under 5 feet 4. The clothing she wore, a brown tailored suit, was modest, looking not at all flashy.

The only thing that may help to identify her is a laundry mark, "E-124," on one of her undergarments.

Think She Started for River.

The police think that the umbrella suicide started for the river, meaning to throw herself in, and that a block from the water she saw the placid rooms for rent in the house and at the sight changed her plans. At any rate, the stranger knocked at the door of No. 549 and asked to see a room. She preferred an upper front room, she said.

Oliver, the janitor, led the way for her up the stairs to the fifth floor.

As soon as she entered her room, she took a look at the furniture and saw that it was all right. She then went to the window and looked out. She saw the city and the river. She then went to the door and looked out. She saw the city and the river. She then went to the door and looked out. She saw the city and the river.

She fell twenty feet to the street.

On the mantelpiece in the room Oliver found her hat, with the veil neatly folded about it, and a purse containing five cents.

ACTRESS SEEKS SEPARATION

Viola Mohr Says Husband Refused to Pay Her Bills.

Because she claims her husband grew stingy with pin money, Mrs. M. W. Beeton, of No. 122 West Forty-seventh street, known on the stage as Viola Mohr, asked Judge Dowling, of the Supreme Court, yesterday to allow her and attorney's fees in a suit for separation from her wealthy husband, whom she married two years ago. She alleges that he has refused to pay her bills.

Mrs. Beeton said there were dressmakers' bills amounting to $2,120 still unpaid, over her bill for a dress she threatened suit. Lawyer Samuel Hoffman representing them, one of whom, Edmund Weidman, a furrier, obtained judgment for $400 for two sets of furs which Mrs. Beeton declared were necessary for her work.

Judge Hoyer, of the Municipal Court, declared, in view of Mrs. Beeton's social activities and the manner in which she had been accustomed to dress on the handsome income her husband had previously provided, that she was entitled to two sets of furs.

MAYOR SCHMITZ TO BE ARRESTED WHEN HE LANDS

San Francisco Official Now on Ocean Sailing to New York.

When Mayor Schmitz, of San Francisco, reaches New York, he will be arrested. The indictment against him, which was returned by the Grand Jury of the city yesterday, charges him with having committed a crime against the laws of the state of New York.

The indictment against Schmitz and Ruef are the result of an investigation that has been in progress for over a year in San Francisco. This investigation has uncovered amazing rascality on the part of men in public life. It is charged that Ruef and Schmitz levied systematic blackmail upon notorious rascals in the city and that they have profited to the extent of millions.

Pernicious Graft System.

New Yorkers cannot realize the extent of the graft system as it prevailed in San Francisco previous to the earthquake. No other city would tolerate it. No city in this country would tolerate it. No city in this country would tolerate it.

The man chosen for the task was Francis J. Heney. He uncovered the land and timber frauds in Oregon in 1904. He was known as the Pacific Coast as a fearless and impartial investigator.

He was the finishing stroke. The people rebelled. If Ruef had persisted in his design, he would have been lynched. He had to back down, the result of which was the indictment against him.

The charge upon which the indictment was returned is that Schmitz and Ruef collected blackmail from the notorious French restaurants, such as the "Frolic House," "The Cafe," and "The French House." It has long been a matter of common knowledge in San Francisco that these restaurants were paying Schmitz and Ruef a large sum of money to protect them from the law.

The man who ran these resorts were out of business by the earthquake and, as they have nothing to lose by telling the truth, Mr. Heney is now able to force a settlement. Cablegrams have been received stating that the San Francisco police holders, who were a shrewd move to force the settlement, have been forced to work this far.

CREW OF FOUR MEN LASHED TO WRECK.

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—The schooner Mary E. Newton was wrecked early today on False Spit, a sunken ledge near Boston Light, and the crew of the schooner saved their lives only by lashing themselves to the mast.

The Mary E. Newton was a cargo of coal, was bound from Woburn, N. H., for London. She was damaged in the storm off Cape Cod yesterday, blown across Cape Cod Bay and struck on the ledge.

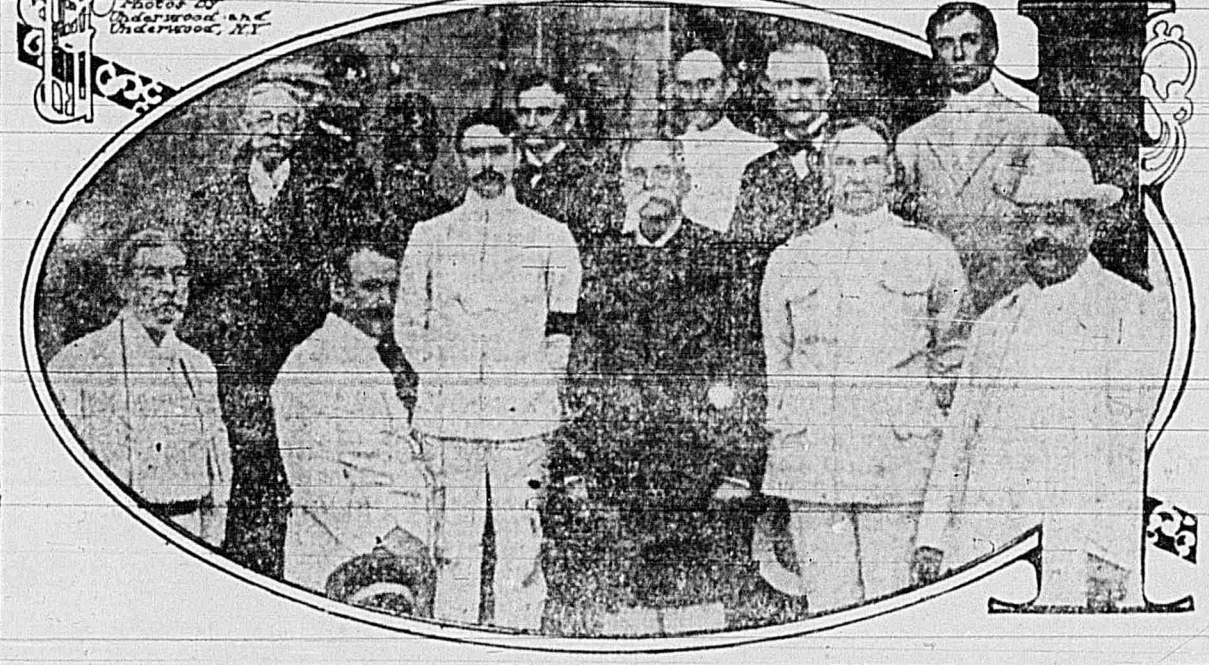

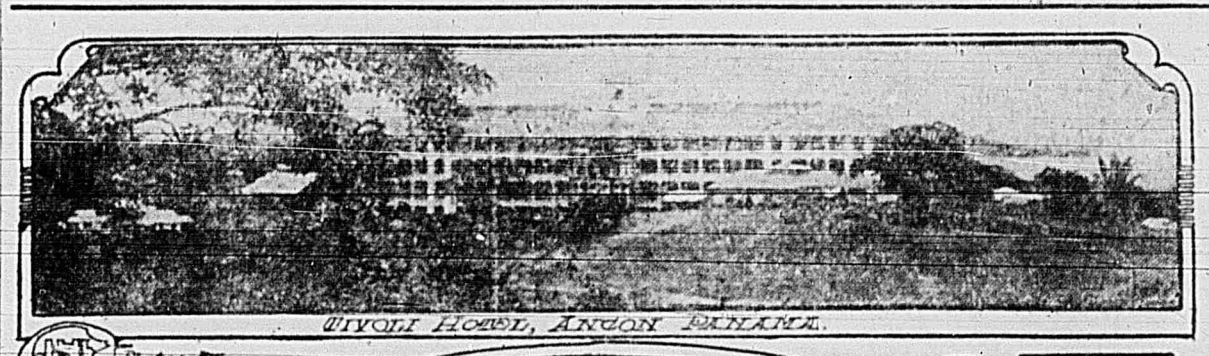

The Mary E. Newton is owned by W. B. Morey, of Lubec, and is probably a total loss.

He remained at the club for about twenty minutes. Before leaving Representative Jose Lefevre welcomed President Roosevelt in behalf of the youth of Panama and the National Assembly. The President replied in a highly complimentary manner, saying that he always believed in the future of Panama.

LUCANIA NEARS PORT.

SIACONSET, Mass., Nov. 10.—The Cunard liner Lucania, from Liverpool to New York, was in communication by wireless with the station here, when the vessel was 20 miles east of Sandy Hook, at 6:40 A. M. today. She will probably reach her dock about 8 A. M. to-morrow.

About a million yen ($200,000) is said to have been wagered at odds of 7 to 3 against a successful floating of the ship, and workmen, formerly of Yokohama, are reported to have been tried to place impediments in the ship's way.

The detection of these days before the launching, it is added, led to the discovery that a workman had actually been arrested, but his examination with the view of ascertaining whether he was connected with the alleged betting syndicate has thus far been inconclusive.

EX-MAYOR OF RED BANK DEAD.

(Special to The Evening World.) RED BANK, N. J., Nov. 10.—John Sutton, a prominent business man, and ex-Mayor of Red Bank, died here of bronchitis, aged eighty-two years. He had been treasurer of the Old Ford Lodge here for fifty years. He leaves a widow and five children.

Ex-Alderman Fred Crowe grew excited today when Judge Cowing, in General Sessions, held a boy who was defending him sent him to reformatory. "It is possible," demanded Mr. Crowe, "that there is one law for the poor and another for the rich in this court! Here is a poor boy who stole a twenty-five-dollar overcoat and he is punished, while the last prisoner, charged with the larceny of a large sum of money, was allowed to go free. This poor boy!"

Then Judge Cowing stemmed the torrent of Mr. Crowe's eloquence. "The last defendant was allowed to go free because his wife and children were starving," he said. "It is a long time since any rich man has appeared here."

The case referred to by the Alderman was that of Samuel E. Taylor, charged with grand larceny and on whom sentence was suspended. Mr. Crowe sought the same disposal of the case of James J. Kuffenschmidt, a lad 17 years old.

MOTHER IS HELD FOR LOCKING BOY IN CORN CRIB

Magistrate Calls Mrs. Nelson's Treatment of Child Inhuman.

MAGISTRATE O'CONNOR, sitting in the Flushing Police Court to-day, committed Mrs. Annie Nelson—the woman who kept her little imbecile child locked up in a corn-crib—for trial in Special Sessions under $200 bail.

Mrs. Nelson and her husband, an aged paralytic, were arrested last week upon the complaint of the Children's Society, charged with cruelty, and the examination was set for to-day.

Mrs. Gertrude Smith, a neighbor, told the Court that she had seen the little unfortunate imprisoned in the corn crib as late as 9 o'clock P. M., on Dec. 1, last year. The child was screaming and its cries were bitter. Other evidence of the same kind was presented.

In her defense, Mrs. Nelson said that her husband was a helpless invalid. She did not dare leave the child with him, and in order to make enough money to keep them from starving she had to go to work in the fields.

"I kept little John locked up," said the woman, "because he was so imbecile and he did not suffer. I took him out at noon when I returned from work and at night. He was never heard of later than 6 o'clock."

The aged husband was discharged from custody, but in committing the mother the Court called her treatment of the boy inhuman.

The boy and an inmate of the hospital on Randall's Island.

SKIN ECZEMA IN WORST FORM

Black Splotches All Over Face Produced Severe Itching—Year's Treatment by Physicians Did No Good and Became Despondent—Affected Parts Now Clear as Ever—Alabama Lady's

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black splotches all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of annoyance and suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of my town. After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in its worst form. They treated me for the same for the length of one year, but the treatment did me no good. Finally I became despondent and decided to discontinue their services. Shortly afterwards, my husband in reading a copy of a weekly New York paper saw an advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies. He purchased the same, and after using the contents of the first bottle of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, the breaking out entirely stopped. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, after that every splotch was entirely gone and the affected parts were left as clear as ever. I have not felt a symptom of the eczema since, which was three years ago."

"The Cuticura Remedies not only cured me of that dreadful disease, eczema, but other complicated troubles as well; and I have been the means of others being cured of the same disease by the Cuticura Remedies, and I don't hesitate in saying that the Cuticura is the best blood medicine that the world has ever known." Lizzie E. Sledge, 640 Jones Ave., Selma, Ala.

Oct. 28, 1905.

And throughout the world, Cuticura cures the worst cases of Eczema, Psoriasis, Itch, and all other skin diseases. For full particulars, see the Cuticura Remedies, or write to the Cuticura Remedies, 1122 Broadway, New York City.
